Jesse is an extremely intuitive massage therapist who has an incredible knowledge of the human muscular system. He works with and finds the connecting points of muscles at the skeletal source. This is important in that he is able to work to release the tension and obstructions at their source. This type of work is very intense as it releases stored emotions as well as any body memories that may be stored in those tight muscles. I have received this type of therapeutic massage in the past and feel that Jesse's work is far superior to any other massage therapist that I have worked with. He described himself, via his clients, as fearless. I prefer to refer to him as extremely intense. Jesse takes what he has learned and experienced, applying the techniques to the individual.

Jesse is respectful of a client's energy and works to rebalance it individually. This rebalancing is used to help transition the client back to reality. His massages often send the client into an altered space as a result of the physical, mental and emotional release that takes place during a session. He intuitively knows and understands where the chinese accupunture channels are and works to open them.

Personally Jesse, I thank you for trusting me and feeling comfortable to use me as a sounding board. My body is on a better path of healing and your work with me allowed for this transition. It was a reminder to self that my body needs as much care as my mind.

After having a session with Jesse, I would say to someone, "I just got a massage from Jesse James," and yet it certainly wasn't like any massage I'd had previously. With each massage, my body becomes a canvas for Jesse's art. His art is one of healing. It's an art of massage. It's an art of energy exchange. It's transformative. My experience was that I was completely safe, loved, and he was healing me. Healing from what? I don't know. Stress, anger, and frustration from my present life and from years ago. Things I had forgotten about from when I was a child. I became present to a new found joy and expression in vulnerability and intimacy in my relationship with my partner. I experienced peace with my physical body and fully being able to trust someone else. When the "massage" ended, I also reaped the benefits that any other massage promises—a heightened state of relaxation, limberness and freedom in muscles where it wasn't previously present or even available, and a sense of peace that comes with my body thanking me for taking care of it. Each massage since then has been distinct, different, and attuned to exactly what my body needs and is dealing with at the time. Sometimes, I'll even admit, I find myself drifting off. Jesse's massage/work/art altered my life, my experience of myself, my body, and my relationships.

If you are looking for a massage that simply leaves you feeling relaxed and soft afterwards, Jesse James is the one for you.

I'm a Reiki master, and appreciate energy work as opposed to just body work. I recently had my first session with Jesse and was blown away! Not only was my body completely re-invigorated, but it was some of the most intense energy/healing work I have ever experienced. I can not say enough about Jesse's professionalism and amazing skills on the massage table. He's friendly, warm, caring, and has an amazing touch! Just my first session with Jesse cleared a huge block in my life that I've been dealing with for years! I'm sold! Do your body and soul a favor and book a session with Jesse!

I am so grateful to have found Jesse! I've been training in Taekwon-Do since I was 4 yrs old and competing internationally with the U.S. ITF Taekwon-Do Team since 1995. In 2004, I was Team Captain and we won the World Championships in South Korea. In addition to the physical training and eating right, massage was a crucial part of my training.

When I began getting massages from Jesse, it was like night and day to massages I've had in the past. I've used therapists that range from $150 to $250 per session and none of them have produced the results I've seen since working with Jesse. His ability to scan the body and pin point what is going on with you in a matter of minutes, even seconds astounds me! I'll come in talking about something wrong with my back and after 10 minutes of him working on my calf, my back feels great! He's a master at seeing what your body is dealing with and what it really needs.

I am training for the Taekwon-Do World Cup in Las Vegas in 2010 and I know Jesse will be a big part of my success.

I have known Mr. Ferrell since 2004. As a mental healthcare professional myself, I believe strongly in the profound nature of the Mind-Body connection. I do not classify quality massage therapy as a "luxury" pursuit, but consider it an integral part of a healthy lifestyle.

I have received regular massage therapy for many, many years from excellent therapists in private practice and from therapists at some of the finest health spas in the country. I have never come across a therapist that has surpassed Mr. Ferrell's clinical skills, whether in the form of traditional Swedish massage or intense, rehabilitative, deep-tissue sports massage therapy. From the time the massage begins, he seems to have an innate ability to automatically know exactly what type of technique his client needs most at that moment, and which part(s) of the body warrant the most attention during the massage session.

Through my interaction with Mr. Ferrell, I believe that he always maintains the highest level of professionalism as a massage therapist, and that he has created an extremely comfortable environment for his clients. I have always been extremely pleased with Mr. Ferrell's work personally, and believe in it enough to utilize him as a referral resource for my own clientele.
